National Managing Partner, Geography and Central Region Managing Partner, Grant Thornton LLP

Executive Summary

As Grant Thornton's National Managing Partner, Geography and Central Region Managing Partner, Nichole's primary focus is on developing and retaining our people, driving market leadership, as well as empowering our teams to help our clients achieve their most critical business goals. She is an inclusive leader who is focused on building a diverse, equitable and inclusive culture of belonging for all.

Nichole works to empower our 3,000 professionals in our Central region across 18 states and 17 offices to serve thousands of US and global clients within multiple industries. She works with our teams to deliver value and insights to clients in the region, ensuring that we take an enterprise-wide perspective to serving each client's needs. She also leads the region's efforts to attract, retain, and develop our professionals, engendering a strong culture of collaboration, client service, and community engagement.

As a member of GT's national leadership team, Nichole participates in firm strategy development and operational execution. She has had extensive experience working across the US as a client service partner, growth leader, industry leader and senior advisor on Fortune 500 clients. She has been deeply involved in developing the firm's key alliance and channel relationships in a variety of markets, as well as building our network of executive peer advisory boards and other leadership forums around the country.

Nichole's leadership portfolio includes serving as GT's national managing partner of Markets, Clients and Industry, overseeing the firm's strategic key client portfolio, industry sectors, regions, sales, market intelligence and customer analytics. Prior to that role, she was a member of the firm's Partnership Board, while also serving as the national managing partner for GT's Banking and Securities industry practice, as well as the leader of markets and industries in metropolitan New York and New England.
